

EDITORIAL OFFICE NEWS AND NOTES

Introduction of More Editorial Board Members and Top Journal of the American Board of Family Medicine Reviewers

In an ongoing effort to introduce our readers to the eminent members of the editorial board that advises and serves the Journal of the American Board of Family Medicine, in this issue we highlight Drs. James M. Gill, Eric M. Wall, and Therese Zink.

James M. Gill, MD, MPH

Dr. Gill received his medical degree from the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey and his Master's of Public Health from Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health. President of Delaware Valley Outcomes Research, Dr. Gill is also associate professor of Family and Community Medicine and senior scientist in the Department of Health Policy at Thomas Jefferson University School of Medicine. At the University of Delaware School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy, Dr. Gill is senior policy associate and an adjunct professor. In addition, Dr. Gill is a research consultant in the Department of Family Medicine at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey–Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, in Camden, New Jersey.

Dr. Gill conducts and publishes research in health policy, health care utilization, and quality of care. He has received research grants on both federal and state levels, has published widely in national medical journals, and has presented at national and international scientific meetings. Research findings are used to help guide health policy and health care delivery at a state and regional level.

Eric M. Wall, MD, MPH

Eric M. Wall, MD, MPH, is the senior medical director of Qualis Health, a health care quality improvement and care management organization headquartered in Seattle, Washington. Dr. Wall is a board-certified family physician with more than 25 years of professional clinical experience. He earned his medical degree at the Catholic University of Louvain in Belgium and completed his residency at the University of Miami–Jackson Memorial Hospital in Florida. He holds a Master's in Public Health from the University of Washington. Dr. Wall served as the chair of the American Academy of Family Physicians' Commission on Science from 2005 to 2007. He currently serves on the American Medical Association's Performance Measures and Evaluation Subcommittee and was recently appointed to the Stakeholder Group for the Effective Health Care Program of the Agency for Health Care Policy and Research.

Conflict of interest: The authors are editors of the JABFM.

Therese Zink MD, MPH

Therese Zink, MD, MPH, is a professor in the Department of Family Medicine and Community Health at the University of Minnesota. She is currently the Associate Director of Research and Evaluation in the Rural Physician Associate Program, which places third-year medical students in small Minnesota communities for 9 months. She sees patients at the Fairview Zumbrota clinic and precepts at the St John's Family Medicine Residency program. Her current research interests include rural physician supply and violence. Using mixed methods (qualitative and quantitative) she has examined the care of domestic violence survivors/victims in primary care. Dr. Zink and her research team have interviewed more than 100 domestic violence survivors about their experiences as victims when seeking assistance from health care. Her research has been published in family, pediatric, and internal medicine and social science journals. Dr. Zink has presented her work at international and national research meetings. Currently she is a coinvestigator on a $1.5 million National Institutes of Health grant that examines health disparities in the sexual assault examination. She was awarded the Researcher of the Year Award in 2008 by the Minnesota Academy of Family Physicians.

Top Journal of the American Board of Family Medicine Reviewers

Each peer review of submitted manuscripts that the Journal of the American Board of Family Medicine receives is evaluated and score by the editors, and the following peer reviewers are in the top 10% (based on evaluation scores plus quantity of reviews) of all reviewers from July 2008 through June 2009. We want to acknowledge these reviewers for the peer reviewing service that they have provided to the Journal. Their critiques and insights are a crucial component of this journal's quality and its ability to serve as a forum for the advancement of knowledge in the field of family medicine.

William A. Alto
 Alfred O. Berg
 Larry Culpepper
 L. Miriam Dickinson
 Steven A. Dosh
 Tanya Dougherty
 William G. Elder
 John W. Ely
 Kenneth S. Fink
 Colleen T. Fogarty
 James M. Gill
 Dwenda K. Gjerdingen
 Adam O. Goldstein
 Rise B. Goldstein
 Beverly B. Green
 Larry A. Green
 Tomas L. Griebeling
 David L. Hahn
 Masahito Jimbo
 Patricia M. Lenahan
 Helen E. McIlvain
 James W. Mold
 Zsolt J. Nagykaladi
 Wilson D. Pace
 Donald Pathman
 Howard K. Rabinowitz
 Dean A. Seehusen
 Jun Shu
 Peter C. Smith
 Douglas Smucker
 Peter G. Teichman
 Matthew E. Ulven
 Anthony J. Viera
 Barbara P. Yawn
 Adam J. Zolotor

Special Geographic Information Systems Issue

Look for our theme issue scheduled for January 2010 that will feature articles with a geographic information systems methodology and will discuss the impact that geographic information systems is having on family medicine.

Phillip Lupo, MLIS
 Anne Victoria Neale, PhD, MPH
 Marjorie A. Bowman, MD, MPA