Manuscript Invitation

The JABFM welcomes high-quality manuscripts that contribute to family medicine as a clinical scientific discipline. High priority is given to clinically relevant studies that have practical implications for improved patient care. Manuscripts are evaluated with regard to quality, originality, significance to the advancement of the field of family medicine, and level of interest to the practicing family physician. Information for authors can be found at www.jabfm.org.

Reviewers

We welcome new peer reviewers. To volunteer for this important service, please contact us at jabfm@med.wayne.edu or 313-577-5205; or you may download the form at www.jabfm.org via the right navigation bar.

CHAIR, DEPT. OF FAMILY MEDICINE AND COMMUNITY HEALTH

The University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health (SMPH) invites applications and nominations for the position of Chair of the Department of Family Medicine and Community Health.

As one of the first family medicine departments in the nation, the Department of Family Medicine and Community Health is committed to improving the health and well-being of the people of Wisconsin and the nation. Recognizing that 80 percent of the factors that determine health outcomes are outside of direct clinical care, the department officially changed its name to incorporate "Community Health" in 2015. Through its fifty-year history of partnerships with physicians, teachers, communities, and health systems across the state, the department and its residency graduates advanced the availability of local, accessible health care for Wisconsin families, embodying the "Wisconsin Idea".

The FY20 annual operating budget for the Department of Family Medicine and Community Health is nearly $68 million which includes a funded research portfolio of nearly $7.8 million. Personnel include 261 core faculty and staff, with an additional 253 clinical adjunct faculty statewide. Two-thirds of the department's graduating residents have entered practice in Wisconsin. The department offers fellowships in academic family medicine, addiction medicine, integrative health, primary care research, and primary care sports medicine (with Pediatrics). Patient care extends across 17 statewide clinics, with approximately 360,000 patient visits (150,000 patient panel) annually.

Research strengths include the prevention and treatment of substance abuse, infectious disease surveillance and systems-engineering approaches for improving ambulatory care. The department houses Wisconsin Research and Education Network (WREN), a statewide practice-based research network.

The successful candidate will have a compelling vision for the future of family medicine and community health at the UW School of Medicine and Public Health. S/he will model a high level of professionalism and empathy, and apply collaborative approaches to team-building throughout a geographically dispersed unit. Applicants must have a MD, MD/PhD, DO or equivalent degree(s); Board Certification; and eligibility for a Wisconsin

Medical License. The incumbent must also have a substantial record of achievement in administrative leadership, clinical care, teaching across the full continuum of learners, and a strong academic background that would qualify for appointment as a tenured professor at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Please send nominations to: Elizabeth Trowbridge, MD and Maureen Durkin, PhD, DrPH, Co-Chairs of the Department of Family Medicine and Community Health Chair Search Committee, c/o Benjamin Schultz-Burkel, DMA, 4299C HSLC, 750 Highland Avenue, Madison, WI, 53705-2111, drbenjamin.schultzburkel@wisc.edu.

Visit go.wisc.edu/dfmchchair to apply for this position. Click the "Apply Now" button. Applicants will be asked to upload a CV and personal statement/cover letter.

Applications from minorities and women are strongly encouraged. To receive full consideration, apply by December 1, 2019.

The School of Medicine and Public Health has a deep and profound commitment to diversity both as an end in itself but, also as a valuable means for eliminating health disparities. As such, we strongly encourage applications from candidates who foster and promote the values of diversity and inclusion. Unless confidentiality is requested in writing, information regarding applicants must be released upon request. Finalists cannot be guaranteed confidentiality. Wisconsin Caregiver Law applies. The University of Wisconsin is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. For more information, visit www.med.wisc.edu, www.fammed.wisc.edu, and <https://madison.wisc.edu/>.

ABFM Emblem

The Emblem of the American Board of Family Medicine embodies the story of the Specialty of Family Medicine.

The upper half of the Emblem pictures a palm tree. The lower half is divided into two parts: on the left-hand side is a representation of the mythological bird, the Phoenix, rising out of its nest of fire; on the right-hand side of the lower half is the standard of medicine, the Staff of Aesculapius.

The palm tree is the Phoenix Dactylifera, the Latin name for the date palm, so called because of the ancient idea that if this tree is burned down or if it falls through old age, it will rejuvenate itself and spring up fairer than ever. This symbolizes our specialty arising directly from its general practice heritage.

The Phoenix, the fabulous Arabian mythological bird, lives a certain number of years, at the close of which it makes a nest of spices, sings a melodious dirge, flaps its wings to set fire to the pile and burns itself to ashes and comes forth with new life. This, of course, symbolizes our periodic recertification.

Immediately below the Emblem are the Latin words, "Palnam Qui Meruit Ferat"--"Let him bear the palm who has earned it". This refers to the Roman custom to give the victorious gladiator a branch of the palm tree, the palm leaf being a sign of attainment of victory--symbolizing for us the attainment of Diplomate status by examination.
